The TyB portal has gone online

<http://trainyourbrain.uth.gr>

TyB consortium partner, University of Thessaly from Greece, has already delivered a working portal and webpage that will be one of the project's flagships. Its role is of high value since the portal will act as an umbrella under which all the tools, methodologies and curriculum developed during the project's lifespan will be gathered and made available for tutors. By the end of March, the portal has been reviewed by each partner and its main layout is already finalized.

At the moment, all the partners are refining translations of the portal's content so far, in all the working languages of TyB, namely Greek, Spanish, Estonian, Finnish. Gradually, content is also uploaded and will continue to be added until the end of the project as all partners are active on developing further material.

VOL 2. In this issue:

- The TyB portal goes online
- Meetings, meetings, meetings...
- The TyB curriculum progresses

Meetings, meetings, meetings...

Between 7–8.11.2021, the consortium held their first face-to-face transnational Project meeting in Estonia, Tartu. Hosts of the meeting were Robootika and all the other TyB partners were there for fruitful discussions and decision making regarding the projects next steps and outputs.

Main discussion was about IO1 and IO2, regarding mostly (but not only):

- reviewing of the coding and soft skill activities*
- best ways to engage teachers*
- ensuring the value of the proposed curriculum*
- exact number of articles, suggested books, informative videos, webinars to be integrated in the TyB curriculum.
- best way to validate the aforementioned material.*
- the amount, duration, content and general organization the TyB educational videos including presentations, tips and tricks, good practices and inspirational ideas mostly about the coding activities in IO1.*
- best way to validate the videos*
- how to gather feedback from end-users*

Happy TyB partners in Tartu, Estonia (Nov. 7-8, 2021)

In addition to the first “real” meeting in Estonia, the partners felt the need to meet up virtually in between of the next scheduled transnational meetings, in order to quickly discuss about less urgent but equally important decisions.

The first online meeting was held on March 22, 2022 and the main agenda addressed issues regarding the finalization of the TyB portal (layout, translations, content etc.)

Online meeting, Tuesday 22nd March
